The Action Committee for Minority Employment (ACME) held its annual luncheon which turned out to be a good bye to Tacoma Urban Leagues (LEAP) Labor Employment and Apprenticeship program - which has lost its funding from the Department of Labor. ACME is a combination of Labor Unions, contractors, Urban League, Bates Vocational Technical School and interested citizens whose goal was/is to help minorities into the skills trade through mutual cooperation They have come a long ways from 1969 when the idea was conceived. They pledged themselves to continue the efforts although the staff base (LEAP) is gone.

Veterans Day 1981

Veterans Day 1981 marks the fourth anniversary of the return of the observance to November 11 and the tradition of honoring the unknown soldier at Arlington on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

From 1971 to 1975, Veterans Day was observed on the fourth Monday in October in compliance with a 1968 law that changed most national holidays to Mondays.

In 1975, Congress responded to public feeling that the November 11 date was too significant to abandon. Effective 1978, and on the sixtieth anniversary of the World War I armistice, a law was passed returning the holiday to November 11.

With the return of the observance to the armistice date of that "war to end all wars," this year's observance is an occasion to pay tribute to the 1,081,000 Americans who have died in the defense of their country in all American wars since 1776 and to more than 30 million former servicemen who served during both war and peace.

Black GOP Confab A Success

By Ron Wilson

The Black Republicans of Washington State took a quantum leap forward when, on October 31, 1981, their first ever conference was held at the Doubletree Plaza Hotel in Seattle, WA. The conference was well conceived and flawlessly executed by the steering and advisory comittees who sought to bring Black Republicans and a number of elected officials and party officers together for a day of information and dialogue.

Among those in attendance was Sen. Slade Gordon who delivered the keynote address in opening the conference. Questions following the senator's address were numerous and covering the entire gambit of national and regional issues.

It is significant to note that the senator was accompanied by Ms. Anna Perez, formerly of Tacoma, wA and now residing in Washington, D.C. Ms. Perez, a past editor of the Tacoma Facts, is presently Acting Press Secretary to Sen. Gorton.

Secretary of State Ralph Munro was in attendance to bring comments and share in the workshops that followed the general session. The workshops also saw an appearance by Representative Joel Prichard.

The conference was convened to launch a course of action which had a four-pronged purpose as follows:

1. To establish a sound Black Republican base for increased issue influence and party and candidate work output.
2. To acquire direct information about current Republican programs and directions.
3. To establish first-time exposure to and direct contact with key GOP officials.
4. To become better acquainted and share information of mutual concern.

Senator Slade Gorton and his Acting Press Secretary Anna Perez

Commencement of workshops in areas of politics, education , and economics facilitated the attack on the challenge set forth in the conference, and an unexpectly controversial panel discussion opened new vistas and presented new challenges for the group's attention. The panel of speakers'

1. James Munn-National Regional Republican Representative.
2. Jennifer Dunn-State Chairman, Republican State Committee of Washington.
3. Ron Dunlap-King County Executive.
4. James Waldo-Chairman 1980 Spellman Campaign.
5. James Medley-King County Republican central Committee.

One of the high points of the day came in a luncheon forum with Arthur A. Fletcher, National and International business counsultant, advisor to the White House and U.S. State Department, and former Assistant Secretary of labor. Mr. Fletcher's knowledge, energy, eloquence and a touch of the Baptist preacher helped to focus and amplify the myriad of skills and information present at the conference.

The Washington State Conference of Black Republicans opened with a positive vigor unequalled in recent times and concluded in the promise of action in the days to come.

To Be Equal

Sadat: Statesman And Leader

by Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.

The brutal assissination of Egyptian President Anwar sadat has led many to reflect on leadership and on the qualities that lift politicians and heads of states to the honorable and respected title, "statesman."

There is no doubt that Sadat earned the "statesman" title through his extraordinary leadership of Egypt.

A soldier and a man of war, he came to stand for peace. A man who was expected to be a short-lived figurehead after Nasser's death, he became a powerful force in his country's history. A partisan in one of the world's longest-lived and most bitter international disputes, he became the initiator of a process that promised to end the conflict.

It is sad to think that in a world so recently led by men of gargantuan proportions, men like Roosevelt, Churchill, DeGaule, and a handful of others, only Anwar Sadat among our immediate contemporaries is likely to stand in their company.

Sadat's genius was the ability to look far into the future while his peers contented themselves with short-range objectives. He saw the futility of the prolonged Arab-israel conflict and the terrible suffering it caused his country.

And he did something about it. His visit to Jerusalem, the historic flight that broke the pattern freezing both sides into attitudes destined to lead to more wars, was a stroke of boldness unique in our times.

That extraordinary step went beyond the conventional rhetoric that passes for "leadership"; it went to the core of the problem by creating a new psychology and a new set of realities that all sides had to deal with.

Sadat was fond of talking about the need to deal with the psychological factors in disputes. He recognized that what people say and what people feel are often quite different, and that breaking through psychological barriers was often as important as purely diplomatic initiatives.

So it was by force of his personality and his acute snese of the buried desires of the people of his region that Sadat was able to inaugurate a peace process most people believed impossible.

The glacial pace of that process is hardly a criticism of Sadat. Rather, it reflects the failure of other actors in that fateful drama to rise above their own ambitions and rhetoric. It demonmstrates the gap between great leaders who have a vision of the future and act upon that vision, and lesser men who muddle through as prisoners of short-range considerations or to preserve personal power.

With Sadat's death, a new period of uncertainty grips the Mideast. The area is a potential tinderbox, a deadly mixture of Cold War revalries, oil politics, fanaticism, and fragile political structures.

But pessimism is something that comes all too easily. As Sadat understood, an optimistic frame of mind can help shape optimistic outcomes. Since his death, we have been treated to a steady stream of doomsday predictions that new outbreaks of war are inevitable. That was the conventional wisdom before Sadat's great breakthrough; such predictions may once again be proved worng.

Sadat risked all, and in a sense lost all, since his assassination deprived him of his life. But that awful event merely demonstrates the force of irrationality loose in the world, and the dangers to freedom and peace of fanaticism and terror.

All of the world's leaders, from desert princes to revolutionary generals, from the White house to the Kremlin, ought to heed Sadat's wise words that: "I've been able to do with my head what I've never been able to do with guns."

Sadat will be sorely missed by a world to which he sought to bring peace. We needed more Sadats, now we have fewer. Leadership is in short supply.

Tacoma Human Relations Department Certified by EEOC

The Tacoma Human Relations department, based upon its record of performance during the past federal year, has received full certification by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, as noted in the Federal Register, October 13, 1981. Certification by the EEOC will eliminate a case-by-case review of findings and resolutions of the Title VII charges processed under contract by the department.

During the past year the department surpassed its contractual obligations by completing the processing of the Title VII charges within 111 days, eliminating its entire backlog of charges, providing settlements in 54% of all charges filed, and having its decisions accepted at a rate of 100% by the EEOC. Fifty percent of cases filed were processed and completed within 48 days. The department, through its enforcement activities, produced annualized benefits for charging parties of $81,075.00 during a nine-month period.

The department completed the terms of its twelve-month contract in ten months and was granted an additional $4,200 for the months of August and September

Another election day has come and gone. For What it is worth I hope you exercised your right to vote. If you didn't don't gripe.
Tacoma seems to be headed for a bright future. optimism is all around. The haves are planning and the have nots are praying. The preacher said this is the best of times and the worst of times. There is a chance for the capitalistic system to work, if its ever going to. It is the opinion of many learned folk, that it is in it's death throes. I hope this isn't the case because I still have hopes of getting a piece of the pie.

The private sector must get under the holes in the safety net and catch some of those citizens who fall through.

I encourage our readers to use this column to let the world know how you feel. However all letters must be signed with an address. We will withhold the above upon request.

BLACK EMPOWERMENT

Anwar el-Sadat: His Black Roots

Black Americans have many potential role models and sources of pride which are often overlooked by themselves or clouded over by others. A magnificent black hero who is a case in point here is the late Egyptian president, Anwar el-Sadat.

Anwar el-Sadat was a black man of Nubian ancestry. Nubia, historically a nation of very dark-skinned Africans, was situated at a point on the African continent where central African influences funnelled their way down through the Nile River valley and on toward the Mediterranean Sea.

Nubians were the predominant people who populated what in ancient days was known as Upper Egypt. The farther down the Nile one travelled, the lighter were the skins of the people. In Lower Egypt where the Nile delta merged with the Mediterranean Sea, Egyptians of basically black stock had come to merge much more extensively with the dusky but still lighter-skinned Arabians to the West ad the more nearly olive-skinned peoples of Greece and Rome. They settled chiefly in the cities.

While all Egyptians are logically or implicitly "Africans", the greater admixture of those with whom northern Europeans later came into contact has enabled some historians to present distorted pictures about the racial make-up of Egypt. With Anwar el-Sadat, the coloration of his skin and the color and ethnic background of those in the village where he was born clearly marks him as among the mainstream of Egyptian life. That mainstream found its roots in Upper Egypt.

Whenever ancient Egypt exercised its widest influences upon the world—in art, science, technology, political organization, and religion—the Egyptian throne was in Upper Egypt.

The throne moved between Upper Egypt and Lower Egypt depending upon whether the "Delta people" or the Nubians were in power. The Delta people of Lower Egypt were of a mixed or a polyglot ancestry. They had no secure identity or cultural roots but they were highly successful in commerce. Hence they gained power and influence through trade, serving as middle men for the products, services and ideas of Central Africa and those of the small circle of city-states which comprised the Mediterranean world.

When the great pyramids were built, and when Egyptians led the world in science, art and philosophy, the Nubian kingdom of Upper Egypt was in power. It was from these characteristically darker-skinned peoples of Upper Egypt that the clearly dark-skinned Anwar el-Sadat had come.

Small wonder, then, that Anwar el-Sadat most notably was a man of tremendous pride in his past. The dark-skinned or Nubian Eighteenth Dynasty in Egypt was comprised of black kings and queens whose well-known names and towering accomplishments have come to be immortal. They created some of the greatest "wonders of the world".

These great men and women included Ahmose I, Nefertari (or Nefertiti), Amenhotep II, Thutmose I, Thutmose II, Queen Hatshepsut the Great, Amenhotep III, Iknaton the Great Reformer, and Tutankhamun.

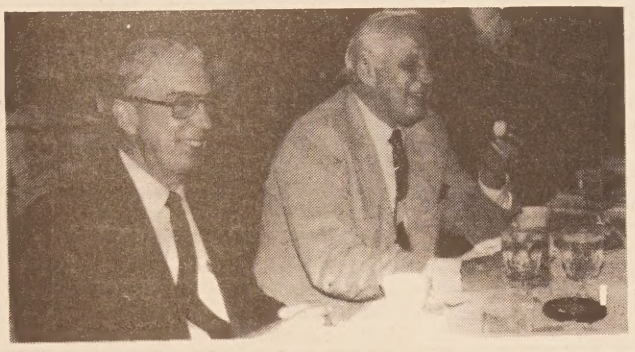
ACME Luncheon



An Independent View from Capitol Hill

BY HON. GUS SAVAGE
First Black journalist ever elected to Congress

Occasionally sobriety, if not sanity, requires that a person step back from the demands of routine and attempt to reflect objectively on the conditions of our country and the world.

This is especially true of us in the Congress who must daily cope with an unvelievable workload of legislation, constituent services and reports to the people.

I permitted myself the luxury of such a look, the other day,

In reviewing the social scene, a steady stream of legislative victories for Reagan and defeats for the poor, the elderly and the handicapped marched tauntingly before me. Analysis of how the administration of one program – Unemployment Insurance – has been altered in a few short months to downgrade benefits to participants clearly demonstrates the crippling attitude of the Reagan Administration toward the needy.

Since the days of the New Deal, funding and staffing of Unemployment Insurance and the companion Employment Service program generally have been based on the need for services. That is, during times of high unemployment, staffs have been increased while during periods of low unemployment the staffs have been decreased. The Reagan budget cuts, however, are changing this. Throughout the country, unemployment insurance and employment service offices are closing their doors as unemployment roles mount.

My review of racial conditions in the United States revealed an equally unsightly panorama. In the vital area of employment opportunities and job rights, the need for affirmative action is being challenged in ever widening circles. In the '60s and '70s, quotas to correct past discrimination were questioned by so-called well-meaning people; now the setting of goals for the extension of opportunities is called unAmerican by man of our once-upon-a-time friends. In some respectable circles, there is a big push on to make intent rather than actual occurrence the legal basis for determining discrimination.

But, probably the most chilling view of all was the look I took into the foreign policy arena. Reagan not only is supporting any dictator he can find who will join his crusade against Communism, but without apparent shame is giving aid and comfort to the government of South Africa, whose oppression of Blacks has not been equalled against any people in this century anywhere in the world. Reagan's concept of a "military balance" in the Middle East is based on an acceleration of the arms race rather than a pursuit of peace. He is the first world leader to enunciate the concept of fighting a limited nuclear war, with his statement of a weeks ago that he could envision a situation in Europe where tactical nuclear weapons could be employed without either the United States or the Soviet Union pushing the doomsday button.

Of course, not every view on my day of reflection was as dismal as those described above. i recalled that Andy young had been elected mayor of Atlanta. And a number of leading polls a few days earlier had declared that if the election were held then, Tom Bradley would be elected Governor of California. Also, I recalled that nearly a half million protesters had come to Washington to demonstrate against the Reagan programs on Solidarity Day.

Despite these bright spots, the evidence is not convincing that workers, black or white, are yet ready to maintain the constant and consistent pressure which will be necessary to derail the Reagan express.

In coming months, i shall return again and again to these moments of quiet reflection. They do more than nurture sobriety and sustain sanity, but are refueling stations in the eternal war against oppression.

Scriptures

Psalms 121

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved; he that keepeth thee will not slumber. The Lord is thy keeper; the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night. The Lord shall preserve thee from evil; he shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore.

Religious Films

Two religious films will be shown at Miles Memorial C.M.E. Church on November 20, 1981, starting at 7:00 p.m. Admission is free.

1. A Thief In The Night is a dramatic portrayal of what happened when Jesus Christ returns.

This suspenseful story center around a young woman caught up in living for the present, with little concern about the future. The rapture predicted in bible prophecy takes place , leaving the young woman in a world which forces her to make a choice: wither for a life of fleeing the inevitable suffering and death; or for unite, a new world government which rejects Jesus Christ and forces citizens to receive the "mark" of the Beast. This movie portrays the Biblical predictions, "There will be no place to hide" Rev. 20:11

2) A Distant Thunder is a moving account of what may happen during the Great Tribulation. This film begins where A Theif In The Night ended. Now in prison, this young lady faces the choice of being branded with the mark of the Beast or dying as a martyr.

These classic films on Bible prophecy are powerful evangelistic film that has helped thousands to find salvation in Jesus Christ.

Fleming Receives Award

Ms. Tina Fleming, wife of Senator Fleming, Senator George Fleming,

BY FITZGERALD BEAVER

Senator George Fleming received the highest award given a private citizen for Public Service by the Community Relations Service of the U.S. Dept. of Justice for his efforts in the passage of the Malicious Harassment Bill in Washington State.

A tribute reception was given by the many friends of George Fleming, Friday, October 30, at the Seattle Hilton Hotel.

This honor could not be bestowed on a more deserving person. Sen. George Fleming has given his best to his community, city, state and country. He has worked hard to do the best for all people and things that crossed his path. I haven't got the time or the space to mention all the good he has done in his career. But, I would like to list a few of the clubs and organizations that have been touched by George Fleming and have a deep rooted desire and pride at being among the friends of George Fleming.

SENATOR Fleming was chosen for the award on the recommendation of Robert Lamb, Jr., Northwest Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Justice, Community Relations Service. It is the highest award bestowed upon a citizen by the agency.

PROMPTED by a rash of incidents involving cross burnings and other racially motivated threats to minorities in his urban Seattle district as well as other districts throughout the State of Washington, Fleming introduced SB 3342 early in the 1981 legislative session. The measure which received bipartisan support and was signed into law by the governor in May, makes malicious harassment of religious, ethnic and racial minorities a felony punishable by imprisonment and fines of up to five years and $5,000.

COMMUNITY support for the measure came from many organizations, including El Centro de la Raza, the Anti-defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish Federation of Greater Seattle, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and the Washington Federation of State Employees. In addition, Senator Fleming received more than 100 calls and letters of support from individual constituents and several police department personnel. Similar bills were introduced in the legislatures of New York, Oregon, New Jersey, and Massachusetts but the Washington law as sponsored by Fleming imposes the strongest penalties and also allows victims to seek civil damages.

Guest evangelist for the week will be Rev. J. Wallace Gaines, pastor of the Antioch Baptist Church, Waterloo, Iowa.

Rev. Gaines, a native of Arkansas, received his bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from Drake Univ. and was commissioned a Second Leiutenant, honor cadet status, in the United States Air Force, For three years in succession, he honorably discharged at the rank of captain.

Rev. Gaines continued his graduate studies at the University of Virginia Law School, the college of William and Mary Law School, and is completing his joint Law and Master of Buisness Administration Degree.

Rev. Gaines was called into the ministry in 1977 and was called as the Senior Pastor of the historic Antioch Baptist Church in Waterloo, which host the largest membership of any predominant black congregation in that state, over 3,000 members, in 1979. He has been active in social concerns of the needy, even before entering the minsitry.

Rev. Gaines is married and the father of two children. You are invited to hear this great man of God and have your soul revived.

Birthday Ball
LINKS Celebrate 15 years

Tacoma Links, Inc. celebrated it's birthday last Saturday evening with a formal dance at the Doubletree Plaza Hotel.

The chapter was installed into the National Links Inc. March 1966 with eleven members. During the past fifteen years the Tacoma Chapter has increased it's membership to twenty-one.

The National Links was formed to improve the quality of life for black citizens who were less advantaged, both culturally and educationally.

Below are just a few of the many projects the Tacoma Chapter has been involved in these past years.

The junior and senior High School Juried Art Show- Donating a projector for visual aid to the Batter Women Center for the promotion of it's work--- Children's storage cabinets to the Hill Top

Day Care Center-- Visiting with foreign students to help make their stay in this country and city more pleasant.-- Personal contributions to less fortunate families-- Launching of the Sickle Cell screening program-- members are active in both the political and civic communities.

Washington State Black Republicans met last Saturday at the Doubletree Plaza Hotel, South Center.

This get-together was to establish a sound Black Republican base for increased influence on issues and candidates.

To establish a first time exposure to GOP official and to share mutual concerns.

The steering committee, John Gilmore, Elizabeth Ponder of Seattle, Tacoma Facts Managing Editor, Virginia Taylor, Nat and Thelma Jackson, Olympia and the advisory committee Henry Beauchamp, Yakima; Norwod Brooks, Bellevue; Paul Fletcher, Charlotte McAllister, Mike Ross, Simone Scales, Shani Taha, Seattle; W. David Shaw, Richland; Bill Wade, Tacoma and Harold Yancy, Kennewick conducted this important one day conference smoothly and with many alternatives for a better plan of improving the Black community.

The work shops wee on Politics, Education and Economics.

Out of the Education worshop which I attended was to 1)Establish a Black Republican caucus in Education, 2)to poll for concerns and issues related to eduction in the Black community. 3)To establish ivestigative procedures and hearings in Tacoma Seattle, Yakima and Spokane to be headed by Dr. Barbara Wesley (To be called the Wesley Hearing). Results to be evaluated, documented and published within a year to lobby for these concerns and issues.

Closing out this successful convention was an evening reception held at pool side in the Doubletree Plaza Hotel.

Arthur A (Art) Fletcher business consultant, National and International Advisor to the White House and U.S. State Department was the luncheon speaker.

Mr. Fletcher spoke on the need of Black Americans to re-evaluate their priorities. Handouts or free-bees are being withdrawn swiftly, other means must now be developed to improve our economic differences or conditions.

Many foreign countries now seek desirable persons from the Black community. Those persons who can assist them in education, economics and technology At the conclusion of his speech a standing ovation was awarded him.

My seat companion was a very quiet and serious young man, a transplanter from California. Since I am a curious person, in a short time, we had an interesting conversation going. This young man, Richard Toms, is an investment executive with Shearson/American Express, Inc. My other seat companion was James Waldo, Chairman of Gov. Spellman's '80 campaign. His work as a lawyer has brought him in contact with many interesting persons,

From delicate Strauss waltzes to pop, country western to native claypso, Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band plays it all...on converted oil drums.

the group, which has performed for three United States presidents and for the Queen of England, comes to the University of Puget Sound Memorial Fieldhouse, Tuesday, Nov. 10. The 8 p.m. concert is co-sponsored by UPS Cultural Events and the Tacoma Community College Artists and Lecture series.

Admission is $4. Tickets may be purchased at the Tacoma Mall Bon Marche Ticket Office, the Information Desk at the UPS Student Union Building and the TCC Bookstore.

Led by Hugh Borde, Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band has appeared at the last seven world fairs and at 40 major state fairs. The band toured for two years with Liberace and one year with Sergio Franchi. It has appeared at hundreds of colleges and universities around the country and won the 1972 Grammy Award for its "Gold" album, "Liberace Presents."

steel band music was born in the days following World war II. Lacking money for instruments to play their beloved calypso, natives of Trinidad discovered that abandoned oil drums could be used for musical tunes.

Borde not only leads Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, but also fashions its instruments. he cuts through 18-gauge steel with a torch, pounds it with a sledge hammer and "tunes" it with a ball-peen hammer and rubber mallet.

The 23 drums Borde has crafted for his ensemble range from a "bass" drum with 21 notes to a "first violin" with 36 notes.

For more information about the Nov. 10 concert, call UPS Cultural Events at 756-3366 or the TCC Office of Student Programs at 756-5118.

Other concerts co-sponsored by UPS and TCC for 1981-82 are a February 28 appearance by the Vienna Choir Boys and a March 15 performance by the Irish group Boys of the Lough. Both events will be held at the UPS Fieldhouse.

Great American Smoke Out Nov. 19th

The American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, now in its fifth year, will be held November 19. The Smokeout is a national educational campaign to get smokers to give up their habit for just one day, as a start to quitting for good.

The Pierce County Unit of the American Cancer Society is offering two free stop smoking clinics in conjunction with the Great American Smokeout.

A one-session "speed clinic" will be held November 18, the day before the Smokeout. The clinic, from 7 to 9 p.m., will be held in the doctors' dining area at Allenmore Community Hospital, South 19th Street and Union Avenue.

A six-session Quit Smoking Clinic will begin November 24, and continue on Tuesday and Thursday evenings through December 15. These sessions also will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. in the doctors' dining area at Allenmore Community Hospital.

All American Cancer Society quit smoking clinics are free, though reservations are required. Reservations can be made by calling the American Cancer Society at 383-1663.

Former smokers who have quit for a year are needed to help others by leading American Cancer Society quit smoking clinics. To volunteer, call the American Cancer Society, 383-1663.

Malcolms Sports Report

A lot of people ar minus some coins, wagered on the World Series. The Dodgers wanted it more than the Yankees. So much for that..... I was talking to a guy about some hats of the N.F.L. teams, which were on display at this store. We were both in agreement that a paper sack would be a good Seahawk hat.....The SuperSonics looked good in the Phoenix win, but c o u l d n couldn't get it together against Portland. They will be alright as the season progresses....W.S.U. met their waterloo Saturday past. Some of the Cougars were saying U.S.C. was unhuman. Now the Huskies have their fate in their hands. First, U.C.L.A. then the Mighty Trojans, the Cougars will be the finale. Looks like no team from Tacoma will be represented in the football playoffs this year. TN Miller ended the football season with a 5-2 record. They have blanked their opponents the last 2 weeks in a row. They said the defense was the key to their success. Congratulations on a winning season fellas. Next year will be something to look forward to....Eastside Boys Club won the 6th grade Football Championship Sunday, by defeating Pennsula 12-6. Touchdowns by frankie Armstrong and Tim Rasmussen was all that was needed. Plus a stout defense. Congratulations Coach Curley and all the Eastside team. Downtown finished third.....Congratulations to Johnny Bumphus for winning the U.S. Boxing Association Junior Welterweight title. Speaking of boxing, I was talking to Tom Mustain of the Tacoma Boxing Club. They have a showdown with Fort Lewis. "By the time you read this the fight will be over". He said Fort Lewis has the depth, but they have the expierence. Good Luck Tom!.... Remember THE FACTS Christmas Tourney basketball fans and teams. Veterans - country's uniform in wartime are still alive. Of a total of 38,924,000 war participants – going back to the earliest days of the nation – 25,789,000 war veterans are still living.

Another 4.2 million living veterans saw only peacetime service.

By far the most costly of America's wars was its Civil War. That conflict saw 364,000 deaths in the Union army and an estimated 133,821 Confederate deaths. (Authoritative statistics are not available for the Southern casualties.)

In contrast, 290,000 Americans fought in the Revolution, and 4,000 died in service. Out of 287,000 Smerican participants in the War of 1812, 2,000 lost their lives in service.

During the Mexican War only 79,000 Americans were in uniform, yet 13,000 died in service.

In the Spanish-American War, 11,000 of the 392,000 U.S. participants died in service.

A total of 4,744,000 answered the country's call to arms in World War I, and 116,000 died.

World War II saw the greatest number of Americans ever in uniform – 16,535,000 men and women. There were 406,000 deaths in service during that conflict.

During the Korean fighting, 6,807,000 saw service, and when it was over in 1955, 55,000 had died.

A total of 9,834,000 Americans were in service during Vietnam Era fighting. Of that number, 47,000 deaths were due to action of hostile forces.
